

CDC H1N1 Vaccination Recommendations For Registered Students and Staff

Flu Clinic:

Monday November 23, 2009

9:00-12:00

12:30-3:00

Also available during regular hours of operation

Priority Group	Vaccine Type
Pregnant women	Injection
Caregivers of infants <6 months old	LAIV* or Injection
Children and young adults aged 6 months to 24 years	LAIV* or Injection
Persons aged 25-64 years who Have medical conditions that put them at risk	Injection
Health care/emergency Medical service workers	LAIV* or Injection

*2 years to 49 years with no underlying medical condition and not pregnant can receive LAIV (Live, Attenuated Intranasal Vaccine) or injection; children 6 months to 23 months can receive injection only

High-risk medical conditions: Asthma, emphysema, cystic fibrosis and other lung diseases, heart disease (but not high blood pressure), diabetes, morbid obesity, neurocognitive disease (e.g., cerebral palsy), neuromuscular disease, and suppressed immunity due to such things as cancer, chemotherapy, bone marrow transplant, steroids and HIV/AIDS.